AS TO MANAGEMENT OF STATE SCHOOL

Governor Glenn Hears Argument on Exceptions to Recent Report of Management.

REVIEW MUCH EVIDENCE

Whole Ground Gone Over by Counsel—Miss Bell's Evidence.

RALEIGH, N. C., April 15.—Governor Glenn devoted nearly three hours to-day to hearing argument by counsel on exceptions to the recent report of the State Board of Internal Improvement, in which it was held that charges of mismanagement and other official acts meriting criticism had not been sustained in an investigation held before the board against Superintendent Goodwin, J. N. Holding, of Raleigh, and J. F. Spaulding, of Hickory, appeared as counsel for Superintendent Goodwin.

One of the principal exceptions was that the report of the Board of Internal Improvement left the impression that no part of the charge made that there had been a diversion of funds of the institution to the benefit of the superintendent and his family were sustained, when the evidence presented to the State board showed clearly that there had been a diversion of funds in the erection of the superintendent's house, but that the charge that the diversion was not particularly for the benefit of the superintendent and his family was not sustained.

Reviews Much Testimony.
In the argument to-day the whole matter was gone over, and much of the testimony taken by the Board of Internal Improvements was reviewed.

Governor Glenn reserved his decision in the matter.
It is a notable fact that one of the principal witnesses in the hearing against Superintendent Goodwin was Miss Bell, the young lady member of the faculty, who committed suicide last week, her body having been found in the woods near the institution with every evidence of suicide by drinking carbolic acid.

Charters are issued to-day for the Rhodes Manufacturing Company, of Lincolnton; capital, $300,000; for the operation of cotton mills, J. M. Rhodes, principal incorporator. The Dillsboro and Syria Electric Light Company; capital, $10,000, by J. C. Fisher and others.

TOOK BOX HERSELF. Young Trained Nurse Has Ex- citing Experience.

RALEIGH, N. C., April 15.—Miss Mary Bledsoe, a well-known trained nurse here, had an exciting experience Saturday with a drunken driver while taking a drive into the country with a convalescing patient. When several miles from the city, Miss Bledsoe discovered that the carriage was being driven on the verge of a ditch and in a dangerously careless way. She opened the door and remonstrated with the driver, who gave such an answer as to show that he was hopelessly intoxicated. She was terrified for the moment, but quickly gathered her wits and told the fellow that she had lost some article up the road and she wanted him to go back and look for it, and that she would hold the horses while he was gone. No sooner had he gotten a safe distance than the young lady mounted the box and drove rapidly for the city. The negro driver ran all day, arrested, N. G. Grant, a tough character. The old lady was not positive in her identification, but her daughter, who also saw him, was.

The old lady was not positive in her identification, but her daughter, who also saw him, was.

IN MEMORIAM.

Another of Stonewall's veterans has crossed over the river and "rests under the shade of the trees." He has answered to his last roll-call, and in the silent bivouac of the dead he awaits the trumpet call, when the King of Kings, and Lord of Lords shall marshal his redeemed hosts, who shall "walk with Him in white, for they are worthy."

On Sunday afternoon, the 7th inst., EDWIN THORNTON BOWEN, of Mecklenburg county, Va., entered into rest. Suddenly, without a moment's warning, the Grim Messenger sped from the courts of Heaven, and touched the war life, and the old soldier, who had faced with unflinching nerve the shot and shell of the Federal hosts, bowed his head and silently obeyed his Lord's summons.

Mr. Bowen was seventy-one years of age when he died, and twenty-five of these had been spent in the service of his Master within the sacred precincts of the Baptist Church. He loved his church, his Sunday-school and prayer-meeting, taking an active and prominent part in all the exercises.

The neat little church edifice at Bracey was built, not only through his influence and individual means, but the material which entered into its construction was carefully selected by himself from his own woods.

In his community he was most highly respected and universally popular, chiefly because he was a man of sterling worth, and whose integrity of character none could doubt.

Quiet, unobtrusive and very reserved, few knew of his many acts of real charity.

Forty years of hard work, economy and self-denial enabled him to give his children a good education, one son taking his A. B. at Richmond College.

He is survived by his widow and seven children: the eldest, Mrs. Holmes C. Harrison; Mrs. Walter T. Bracey; Robert M. E. Ashby, Oscar L. William T. and Alta L. The last-named now a student at the Woman's College, Richmond.

And now, with loving hands, we tenderly draw the veil that keeps the hallowed dust, with hearts bowed down, we tremble in a quiet, reverent, while with grateful hearts we say:

"Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord from henceforth: Yea, saith the Spirit, that they may rest from their labors, and their works do follow them."
